2017 Ghana Mission Team

Last month, a mission team traveled to Ghana as a part of HHYC Compass Ministries' 2017 summer mission trips.

The team was made up of Derek and Tiffany Bond, Andre and Krista McKinnon, Joie Arnold, and Peg Whitmore. Former missionary Jere Gowin had to cancel his part of the trip when his life took an unexpected turn with a heart attack only about a week before the departure date. We are thankful that he is recuperating well at home.

Part of the team's goal was to assist medical missionary Oleta Witt in some groundwork for starting Community Health Evangelism training with the children in Gberi. The team saw 125 kids there, provided deworming medication and vitamins, and also treated things such as malaria, infections, and even seizures.

They ministered in other villages, as well. Tiffany wrote about their visit to Glang: "We presented the Gospel to about 70 children, many [of whom] were Muslims. The adults asked questions about good works being the way to heaven. Pastor Sammy, Oleta, and Dela (a Ghanaian nurse) did a great job of explaining that there is one way to heaven—through faith in Jesus Christ!"

Dr. I. C. Holland took an avid interest in missions in his lifetime, and continued the spread of God's Word even after his death.

AROUND THE WORLD

CARIBBEAN

Over the last few years, World Missions has been the grateful recipient of gifts from the estates of departed saints such as I. C. Holland, Naomi Collins, Connie Foster, and Naomi Boone. In other cases, such as Lester and Lee Etta Witt, World Missions was named a beneficiary of memorial funds donated at the time of their passing.

It is an honor to receive these funds; by giving to World Missions in their death, each person's legacy is extended to a degree only heaven will reveal.
