Celebrating a Friend of Missions

It is a privilege to be able to honor a faithful servant of the Lord and a true friend of World Missions. When Silas McGehee became a World Mission Board member in 1990, he perhaps had little idea what the next 25 years or so of missions involvement had in store. From making several overseas trips, to serving as Board chairman, to serving as Director from 2004-2010, Bro. McGehee has given his best, always serving as unto the Lord.

This year as his current term was ending, Bro. McGehee chose to withhold his name from nomination for the board, feeling that it was time to step down. In thinking of his service, current Chairman, Joe Trussell, summed up Bro. McGehee as a person and a board member well:

“Silas is a man who defies his years. In meetings, even though by far the senior member of the World Missions Board, he gets it - his missiology at times is way more cutting edge than the rest of us who are 20-50 years younger. He has that unique ability to adapt Mission strategy to fit situations, culture and changing times—all of that without one ounce of compromise to the Gospel. Thank you, Brother Silas, for giving of yourself for so many decades to change lives in Jerusalem, Judea, Samaria and the ends of the earth!”

Vacation Bible School in Cayman Brac had an Egyptian theme this year.

AROUND THE WORLD

CAYMAN BRAC

Vacation Bible School in the Brac was held July 18-22. The children were taught Bible lessons about the life of Joseph, and enjoyed crafts to go along with the theme.

Zenia Woods provided leadership as VBS director, but she had many volunteers that helped her make the event a success.

The local newspaper, the Cayman Compass, included an article and pictures of the event. "Sixty children from the Cayman Brac community recently took a voyage back in time," the article stated. There was also a quote from Zenia: "The church's most important job is to communicate God's love in action to our community, and Vacation Bible School gives us an opportunity to do this."
