A Taste of Heaven

It was once said that the sun never set on the British empire. In 2014, the same could be said about the work of missions. When you are leaving work in the evening, the next day is already starting for our workers in Papua New Guinea. In fact, each day of the week, 24 hours per day, your representatives are engaged in Kingdom work around the world.

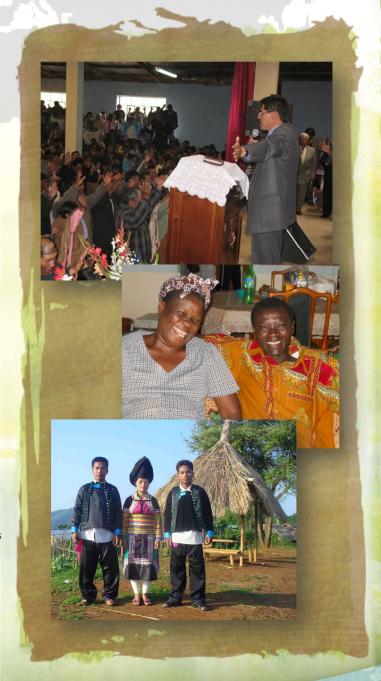

On Monday morning, Rene Bardales may be preparing to come to his office in Overland Park, Kansas. Here he writes, copies, and binds sermons and Bible studies for over 1100 Spanish-speaking workers in 17 countries.

On Tuesday, a couple in Asia head to language school. The alphabet and culture are decidedly non-English, but they are learning quickly and already seeing results in deepening friendships with those around them.

Students head to school in the Caribbean on Wednesday. In St. Croix, 330 students arrive to learn. In Haiti, around 900 children are taught.

Thursday evening is midweek service for a couple of our churches in the Cayman Islands, and Friday sees the Doyles continue their work in Papua New Guinea. Larry serves as manager of the Pacific Orientation Course for new missionaries, and Christy leads the nursery there.

Saturday continues various kinds of ministry in more places, and the week culminates with a chorus of believers praising God on Sunday. Feet dance in Ghana, voices lift in prayer in Myanmar, and hands raise in worship in Bolivia. Just imagine the sight! It's like a taste of heaven: "After this I saw a vast crowd, too great to count, from every nation and tribe and people and language . . . And they were shouting with a great roar, 'Salvation comes from our God who sits on the throne and from the Lamb!" (Revelation 7:9-10).

AROUND THE WORLD

GHANA

In the last few months, Pastor Sammy has learned that the local name for one of the villages where we have a church means "hiding place." There are old slave caves in the vicinity.

The church here at Qsl is the newest of our five in Ghana. Many in the village still practice animal sacrifices, but the congregation of believers is established.

Pray that many more villages will learn that God is the only true Hiding Place, the One who wants to bring deliverance and purpose to their lives (Psalm 32:7).

MYANMAR

This year's graduation ceremony for Shiloh Bible College possibly gained more attention than ever before.

Because the government relaxed restrictions, Pastor Andrew rented space in a local shopping center in October of 2012 for a congregation to meet. Plans were being made for last month's graduation service to be held here. Pastor Andrew invited other pastors and church leaders, too, and expected about 200 in attendance.

Eight students from five different tribal groups graduated, and a commissioning service was held on February 23. Some of these graduates will be heading to minister in villages that have no church.

A majority of people in Myanmar—about 80%—are Buddhist. Some villages are animistic. Pray for many more souls in Myanmar to hear about the one, true God.
